

REVOLT IN GERMANY: GOVERNMENT IS OVERTHROWN

Its Effect on Peace Terms Matter of Conjecture

LEE COUNTY WOMEN TO BE ALLOWED TO VOTE IN COMING PRIMARY

Unless Otherwise Ordered Co. Clerk Will Disregard Ruling.

There is a considerable amount of speculation in the various counties of Illinois, with reference to the decision handed down by Attorney General Edward J. Brundage in which he held that it was illegal for women to be allowed to vote for presidential electors, but unless some hurried action is taken, women of Lee county will be permitted to mark the ballots at the presidential preference primary on April 13 regardless of Attorney General Brundage's opinion.

County Clerk Fred G. Dimick this morning pointed out the law of the State of Illinois in accordance to the Lucey opinion, which states specifically that women be allowed to cast their vote for their presidential favorite. "I cannot understand why two attorney generals' opinions conflict to the extent of changing this ruling," Mr. Dimick stated. "Women will be permitted to cast their vote again this spring as they did four years ago, unless I receive orders to the contrary."

The election board of Cook county has taken similar action and announced that regardless of the Brundage opinion, ballots would be printed allowing the women of the county to cast their vote for their presidential favorite.

Sophomores Made Hit in Their First Play

"Lost, A Chaperon," given by the members of the Sophomore class of the South Side high school last evening was well attended, the Assembly room being packed to the doors and the seats contained two persons each. The play was a comedy in three acts. The pupils all took their parts well and received the highest commendation from the audience. The stage have been tastefully decorated for the occasion.

Miss White, director of the play, worked untiringly to produce the entertainment and deserves much credit for its success. This is the first time that a Sophomore class ever attempted anything of this kind. During the intermission between the acts the High School Orchestra, under the direction of Prof. Stearns, rendered several selections which were highly appreciated. From both a social and financial side the play of last evening was quite a success and the Sophomores added quite a neat sum to their treasury, besides gaining a reputation as amateur performers.

The play opened on a girls' camp at seven a. m. Marjorie Tyndall, Gertrude Rickey, had invited her college chums to camp at her cottage. Marjorie and her chums arrived but the chaperon missed the train which started the trouble. Helen White, Eleanor Coover, Helen Nagle, Mildred Conley, and Gertrude Rickey as the college girls were splendid. Marjorie and her chums were splendid. Marjorie and her chums were splendid. Marjorie and her chums were splendid.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, March 13.—American Railway Express company barns today were under heavy guard of city police as a result of a fight between company police and pickets on strike duty in which a policeman was severely beaten and several others injured. The company asked for city police aid.

A captain of company police reported the fight started when pickets attacked 17 clerks in a terminal station. Strike leaders asserted company police ordered pickets to leave and a fist fight began. The pickets remained.

The express company employees are on strike for wage increases of $35 a month.

ALLIES HOLDING OWN IN BATTLE AGAINST TURKS

Have 50,000 Troops in Constantinople, It Is Announced.

Scores of Good Seats in Family Theater Still Unreserved.

Because every seat in the Family theater is reservable the greatest advance seat sale in the history of Elks' minstrel has not exhausted nearly all of the good seats for the performances Monday and Tuesday evening, and at noon there were still scores of very choice seats left for each performance. However, the steady demand for seats will doubtless continue until Monday evening, and tonight should bring many prospective patrons to the Public Drug & Book Co. store to make their reservations.

Everything is in readiness for the opening performance Monday evening, and promptly at 8:15 o'clock the curtain will raise on the most peppery first part the Elks have ever given, and Dixon people will hear the biggest and best male chorus ever heard in this city. From that time for over two hours an entertainment of more than usual merit will continue, and will be repeated Tuesday evening.

VIOLENT REVOLUTION LOOMS AS CERTAIN AS REBELLIOUS TROOPS START MARCH ON GERMAN CAPITAL

Effect of Revolt on Peace Terms is Problematical—Allies May Retain Aloof and Let Germans Settle Form of Government Wanted.

BULLETIN.
By Associated Press Leased Wire.
Cologne, March 13.—The new government established in Berlin is not intended to promote the aims of the monarchists or the reactionaries, it is declared in a dispatch to the Cologne Gazette from Berlin today.

The message reads:
"The government under Chancellor Kapp says in its program to be made public that it will honorably fulfill the treaty of Versailles. It gives emphatic assurances that the government has no reactionary or monarchial aims."

Berlin, March 13.—(By the Associated Press)—(6 a. m.)—Berlin has been threatened during the night by the immediate danger of a violent revolution. It became known at midnight that revolutionary bodies of troops had begun to move on Berlin from Doberitz.

Generals Von Oldershausen and Von Ovan and Lieut. Colonel Wetzel went to meet these troops and warn them of the consequences of their action. Troops from the Baltic have joined in the revolt.

The troops which were concentrated at Doberitz, including the Erhard and Loewenfeld naval brigades, nevertheless continued their advance on Berlin and at 5 o'clock this morning were at the Tiergarten railway station.

By Associated Press Leased Wire.
Paris, March 13.—(Havas)—A proclamation issued in Berlin today declares that the government of the empire has ceased to exist and that the power of the state has passed into the hands of General Director Von Kapp, who becomes chancellor and has appointed General Von Luetwitz commander in chief of the military forces, Berlin dispatches state.

Socialists Declare General Strike.
The proclamation declares the national assembly dissolved.

It is announced that a new government is being formed. The socialist parties have declared a general strike, the dispatches add.

Troops Occupied Wilhelmstrasse.
The issuance of the proclamation followed the occupation of the Wilhelmstrasse, where the government buildings are situated, by troops who had returned from the Baltic and had been in barracks at Doberitz in the suburbs. The troops entered Berlin this morning, it is stated.

President Ebert and his wife left Berlin at 5 o'clock this morning.

SEIZE NEWS AGENCY.
Berlin, March 13.—(By the Associated Press.)—Public Security guard this morning occupied the offices of Vorwaerts and the semi-official news agency. The services to the provinces and abroad were provisionally suspended.

It was reported during the morning that a manifesto had been prepared and signed by President Ebert, minister of defense Noske and others summoning the workers to a general strike.

RETAINING OFFICERS
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Berlin, March 13.—10:30 a. m.—The members of the Ebert government are retaining their offices although they have left the capital according to the Lokal Anzeiger in a special edition just issued. The newspaper says the old government refused to comply with an ultimatum presented by General Erhart of the naval brigade which expired at seven o'clock this morning the government officials leaving Berlin by motor car without resigning their posts.

ALLIES MAY STAY ALOOF
By Associated Press Leased Wire
PARIS, March 13.—The opinion expressed in official circles at the moment is that the allied governments will take an attitude of aloofness and detachment toward the civil strife in Germany and permit the German people themselves to determine the form of their government.

The armed disorders in Germany are looked upon as most unfortunate both for that country and the remainder of Europe at the time when reconstruction had been begun.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Berlin, March 13.—The overthrow of the Ebert government was announced in a proclamation issued at 10 o'clock this morning after revolting troops from the suburbs had entered Berlin and occupied the Wilhelmstrasse. Up to that hour the movement had proved a peaceful one, no disorders developing.

The proclamation declared that the entire authority of the state has passed into the hands of General Director von Luetwitz.

RETURN OF WILLIAM II
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Berlin, March 13.—The proclamation issued by the old regime, calling on the people for a general strike, declared that it is the only means against the return of William II.

ed into the hands of General Provincial Director Kapp as Imperial chancellor and premier of Prussia.

The proclamation, issued over the signature of Imperial Chancellor Kapp says that the mandate of the national assembly to create a constitution and conclude peace has expired and it declares that national assembly dissolved. It adds:
"As soon as internal order has been restored we shall return to constitutional conditions and prescribe new elections."

It was announced that General Baron von Luetwitz had been appointed commander in chief of the military by the chancellor and that a new government "of order, freedom and action" was being formed.

At 10 o'clock the city was still preserving for the moment its usual aspect. Carriages, taxicabs and street cars were in movement as though nothing had happened. There was no change in the appearance of Unter Den Linden except for the presence of a considerable body of troops at the Brandenburg gate, the Adlon Hotel and the corner of Unter Den Linden and the Wilhelmstrasse.

The proclamation appeared at this corner at 10 o'clock in the morning. A mounted soldier, fully armed and helmeted rode up and handed the proclamation to a small group of people. They flocked around him while the document was read. The proclamation later was read on street corners in various parts of the city.

President Ebert, meanwhile, had left the city.

The names associate with new revolutionary movement in Germany indicate its reactionary character. It appears that Germany is in the throes of the frequently predicted counter revolutionary monarchist struggle.

President Fatherland Party
Dr. Von Kapp, reported as having assumed the chancellorship, is probably Dr. Wolfgang Kapp, a former conservative member of the Reichstag and General Director of the German agricultural society. He was one of the deputies who early in 1918 urged the government to speed up U boat building. He became president of the Fatherland party, the notorious pan-German organization which urged that Germany carry on the war to the bitter end. After the abdication of Emperor William and the signing of the armistice Dr. Kapp was one of the men for whose arrest the independent socialists clamored on the ground that he and his associates had been responsible for the continuation of the war and the hindering of peace.

Military Governor of Belgium
Major General Baron von Luetwitz who according to the dispatches, has been named commander-in-chief, was military governor of Belgium in the early days of the war. He was later a commander on the Verdun front. When the German treaty came up for action by the government last June he was one of the leaders of the military party prominent in opposition to the peace terms. He has an American wife, who was a Miss Cary of Cleveland. He always has been classed as thoroughly Prussian.

Before the war General von Luetwitz held the posts of military attaché of the German embassy at London and later at Petrograd. He was born on April 9, 1865. His father Max Freiherr von Luetwitz, died in 1887. His mother, Irma von Gaal-Gyula, is still living.

Sometimes, in spite of one, a freshly ironed garment will bear traces of a slight scorch. It's always a calamity to have to re-laundery anything before wearing, but a yellow mark is unsightly, to say the least, and something must be done.

If the scorch is not deep all evidence of it may be removed by placing the garment in the sunshine. I managed to scorch the front of a sport waist the other day when I was ironing it. I put the waist in a sunny window and presto—in an hour or so—the stain had disappeared.

Even delicately colored clothes stand this treatment without additional fading. Cover all except the spot with a dark cloth to protect the garment from the rays of the sun.

BREAKFAST—Halves of grape fruit, bacon, graham gems, coffee.
LUNCHEON—Creamed potatoes, cold meat, bread and butter, jelly, walnut pudding, tea.

My Own Recipes.

Some women who have lots of unexpected guests are never without a ham. At certain times of the year people in the country are dependent on ham for meat. Whether boiled, baked, fried or broiled, ham is delicious and nourishing. There is no meat that works up into such toothsome leftovers.

WALNUT PUDDING.
1-3 cup sugar.
1/2 cup cream of wheat.
1/2 cup walnuts.
2 eggs.

1-3 cup stale bread crumbs.
Pinch of salt.

Beat whites and yolks of eggs separately. Break walnut meats into small pieces. Mix sugar with beaten egg yolks. Add remaining ingredients and fold in stiffly beaten whites. Bake in two layers in buttered and floured cake pans. Take from pans while hot and put together with hard sauce.

Serve warm with the following sauce:
1 teaspoon cornstarch.
1/2 cup sugar.
1/2 cup water.
1 tablespoon butter.
1/2 teaspoon vanilla.
Dissolve corn starch in a little cold water and stir into syrup. Cook until thick and add butter and vanilla. This makes a very rich pudding. The pudding may be baked in a deep pan and served with whipped cream.

BOILED HAM.

10 or 12-pound ham.
1 onion.
Whole cloves.
Whole peppercorns.

Soak ham for several hours or overnight in cold water. Wash thoroughly and trim off hard skin near end of bone. Put in a kettle, cover with cold water, bring to the boiling point and simmer until tender—about

DIXON'S OPPORTUNITY.

Dixon has a better opportunity for progress right now than she has had for many years. We can take advantage of the opportunity to our community and individual benefit. We want progress, development and a greater city here in Dixon and we believe we want it badly enough to work for it and earn it. If not, we are wasting a lot of valuable time that could as well be enjoyed resting. If we think time and money spent on the promotion of civic welfare and progress is too valuable to be spared from our individual work and business, we can keep on plugging along at the present rate of progress, which is a little slower than if we were tied to a post. But if we appreciate the fact that united, harmonious, willing service to the public good will result in a greater and better Dixon and an immediate and direct benefit to each of us—employer, employee, property owner or any citizen—and that a few minutes devoted to properly directed energy in behalf of the Chamber of Commerce and its works will be worth more to our business than hours spent in selfish, individual effort toward our own separate aims, then the next census can be 20,000 instead of less than 10,000.

The most representative membership in the history of civic organization in this city has, in a thoroughly representative vote, elected a new board of directors for the Chamber of Commerce. Every member was invited to the meeting and a big majority of them came. Every man present had a voice in the election of the directors and the men receiving the majority of votes were declared elected. The new board should be considered the choice of the majority of Dixon citizens. A deep trust and a heavy responsibility has been placed with them. We have chosen them to lead and guide Dixon to greater and better things and now it is up to the citizens to give generously and without reserve of their every resource, for without that, nothing can be accomplished. The new leaders in civic progress will need and should have our moral backing, our energy, our financial aid and our willing support at their command.

Dixon will get nowhere and will waste money and time unless whole-hearted support is back of the officers of the Chamber of Commerce. No fraction of support will do. It will take every ounce of energy to accomplish our aims.

If this new attempt to build up Dixon fails it will be very difficult ever again to enlist the confidence and aid of the citizens. Everyone is hopeful now and confident that results will come out of the new organization and Dixon's opportunity is big, with all this civic spirit of optimism and willingness to aid and desire to co-operate.

The Telegraph is confident that a bigger and better Dixon will result from the work of the new Chamber of Commerce. However, we do feel that the great need at this time is unflinching loyalty and backing for our chosen leaders in the fight. The prize is too valuable to risk losing by a trifling lack of support. There is every reason to believe that Dixon's population can be doubled in a very few years by united effort of the citizens, wisely led.

The new board of directors is the composite choice of the membership of the association. Many able and valuable men are not on it, but they will undoubtedly be called upon to do work for the Chamber of Commerce that is more valuable even than service as an officer. The Board is a good one and it represents, as nearly as possible, the choice of the whole membership and the various interests represented by the membership. Given complete support by the membership, big things can and will be expected of the newly elected officers. Without that support we can not expect any good results. The Telegraph believes that both the support and the good results will be forthcoming.

HOME BUILDING.

High rents are due to the house shortage. The house shortage largely is due to the high cost of building material, and it will continue until the price of lumber, nails, paint, brick, cement, comes down out of the clouds. The price list of lumber of Feb. 21 compared with that of June 1, 1919, shows an average increase of more than 100 per cent. It is coming down.

So predicts "Commerce and Finance," pointing out that "the price situation is weaker because quotations have reached the point where the volume of orders threatens to shrink seriously." In other words: Building material prices have gone to the limit beyond which people will not buy to build houses.

KNOWLEDGE.

Cried Eve. "It's in easy reach."
"O, see what it is hangs over your head." But Adam looked at her lips and said, "It's a pippin, but you're a peach."

"I'm a Maiden Blush, when you eye me so,
For your look's almost a stab,
But unless you eat, I shall think, you know,
You're really a bit of a crab.

"It's a summer fruit," said the tempting Eve,
"So bite into it once; that's all."
"After you," said Adam, "although I believe
It looks like an early Fall."

Then befell the curse which destroyed his bliss,
The curse which the Apple carried,
For the knowledge the Tree bestowed was this;—

He realized he was married!

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

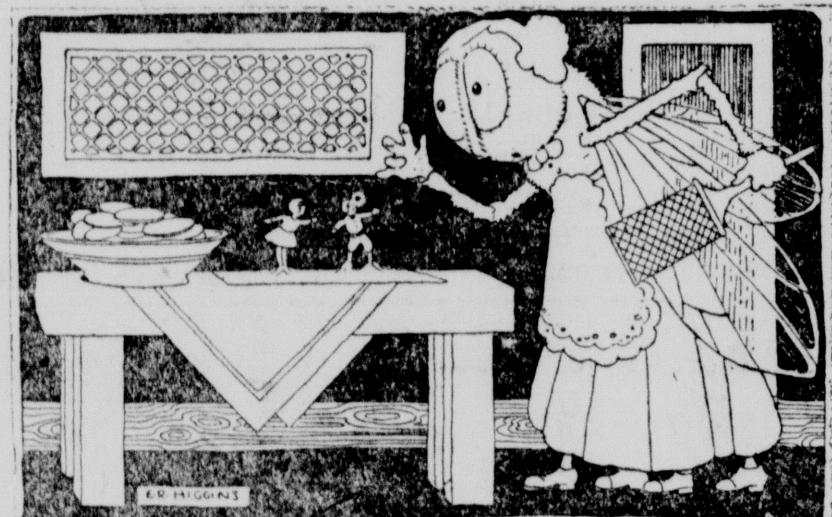

by Olive Roberts Barton

MRS. FLY'S BUSY DAY
Mrs. Fly was cooking a very good dinner. It smelled very good, and it looked very good, and from the number of tastings, and stirrings, it must have been good.

Nancy and Nick had come suddenly upon her little house in Topsy Turvy Land, and peeped in just as Mrs. Fly was tasting the custard. "Buzz, that's good!" she said, setting it beside the cooky-crock on the table. "But before I start to bake the jelly cake, I'll have to see that the screens are tight, for the smell of this custard will surely draw children."

But while she was inspecting the windows the twins had found a crack in the door, and the pest was easy. The Green Shoes made them about as small as nothing at all, and in they skipped. They didn't mean to be naughty, but oh, those cookies smelled so good! Just a little nibble at the sugar wouldn't hurt, surely!

"Land alive!" cried Mrs. Fly, throwing up her hands in horror, "if two of those horrid creatures didn't get in after all, and they're at my cakes!"

"Ah, ha!" Mrs. Fly said. "I guess I have you safe now."

Where's that swatter?" And she buzzed some dreadful buzzes. Well, she hunted and hunted before she found it, and by the time she did, the children had had over so many nibbles.

Then suddenly—bang! Something came down with an awful crack right beside their ears, and they jumped about a mile, right into the sticky fly-paper—I mean, children paper!

"Ah, ha!" said Mrs. Fly. "I guess I have you safe now." And she put the swatter away, much pleased.

But you know about how long magical shoes are going to stay stuck on sticky paper. Not a second! And they whisked the twins right off, and out the door.

"Good bye, Mrs. Fly," called the Fairy Mushroom from Nancy's pocket." (Copyright, 1920, N. E. A.)

DECAY OF THE TEETH.

Decay of the teeth, also spoken of as "dental caries," is caused by the actions of germs of bacteria which lodge upon the less exposed parts of a tooth. As a result of their growth the tooth structure is softened, allowing the succeeding generations of bacteria to penetrate further into the tissues of the tooth.

It will be noticed that decay usually begins either in the little grooves un-derneath either in chewing, but which because of their depth are not well scoured by the food in chewing, or else at the point where one tooth adjoins another. This point also fails to receive the scouring which the more exposed parts of a tooth receive.

Now as the thickness of the enamel is the same upon the side of the tooth toward the tongue or lip and upon the side toward the adjoining teeth, and as its quality is also the same, we may safely conclude that if the surface toward the adjoining teeth could be kept as clean and well polished as the exposed parts of the tooth.

In some of the ancient skulls examined, it was found that the surfaces which make contact with other teeth in the same jaw were highly polished by the slight individual motion of each tooth in its socket as hard pressure was brought to bear upon it and was thus rubbed against its neighbor.

ANSWERED.

Q.—What is the dose to be taken of sulphur and molasses? How long should it be taken and of what good is it?

A.—The use of sulphur and molasses dates from the time when it was believed that the blood required "purifying" every spring. At the present time we believe that we can accomplish very much more by attention to a proper diet and to such hygienic measures as exercise in the open air, sleeping with windows open, regular brushing of the teeth and care of the bowels. If you will send me your name and address, I will be glad to send to you a little booklet entitled, "The Road to Health," which will probably be better for you than any quantity of sulphur and molasses.

Q.—What organ separates the fats or oils from the water? Do fats digest?

A.—In the intestine are tiny glands, the lacteals which absorb the fats and pour them into the blood by means of the thoracic duct. Of course fats digest. They constitute an important source of body heat.

Q.—What would you advise for a dry, peeling skin on the feet? Sometimes they feel uncomfortably hot at night.

A.—My left ear bothers me with constant ringing. I have no symptoms of catarrh. What shall I do?

(3) My husband, who is 55 years of age, and apparently healthy, falls asleep easily, even when we have company. He works eight hours a day in an automobile shop. Gets seven hours of sleep regularly and more than that on Saturday and Sundays. What may be the trouble?

A.—(1) It is not possible from the brief description you give to determine the nature of the trouble with your feet. It is suggested that you bathe them every night in hot water, following this immediately with very cold water, then dry the feet thoroughly and go to bed. If this procedure does not benefit you, you should go to a physician and have him advise you.

(2) In most cases ringing in the ears is due to some internal inflammation in the ear, and this may have resulted from the cold in the head. If the trouble persists, you should by all means visit a good nose and throat specialist, or a dispensary, where such a specialist can be consulted.

(3) So far as your husband's drowsiness is concerned, it is possible that he is not getting sufficient fresh air. Perhaps you keep your room too warm and insufficiently ventilated. That is one of the most common causes of drowsiness, such as you describe. If the fresh air does not help him, it is possible that his arteries require attention. Better have him see a doctor.

"I've never been hypnotized—except by you, Bob. You're the only— Please don't be trivial about this, dearest. Believe me! I am not the only person who can put you into a trance. Somebody else can—and has just proved it. Certsels maybe?"

I Learn Donna Camilla Used Her Hypnotic Powers on Me.

"Impossible!" I exclaimed. "I never let myself be so weak; no man's will can control my mind—and my imagination!" I shook my head in honest indignation.

"Don't be shocked, Jane. Let's get at the truth about your experience. I myself didn't see any wrath up there in the loft. I didn't smell any smoke. I saw only the moonlight splashing the floor. Think, dear. Who besides Donna Camilla has ever told you the ghost story? Nobody? Who besides Donna Camilla knew that you were going to keep watch up there tonight?"

"Not a living soul, Bob!"

"Then it was that grande Dame with the Mona Lisa smirk who put it over you, my dear! Donna Camilla is some hypnotist, believe me!"

"But why—why—did she try her black art on me, Bob? Why?"

"I should say she did it this time just as an experiment. Just to find out if she has any power over you. Never let her know what you imagined you saw up there, my dear! Never let her guess that she can hold your attention for a minute!"

Bob's earnestness frightened me.

"Why are you so worried about the incident, Bob?" I asked.

"If she were to know how well she has succeeded, she might use her art—later—at the order of Hamilton Certsels."

"I see," I said. And what I saw sobered me considerably. "That elegant old woman never did fit into the part of housekeeper for this hacienda. She's especially dangerous because she adores Certsels. She considers him the last of her own ancient line of Spanish aristocracy."

"So she will do his bidding, no matter what it is," Bob reflected. "I say, dear. Fight her influence! Never be interested in her nonsense about miraculous pictures and smoke wreaths of murdered beauties. Yes, I know, we had to have some excuse for getting into that loft. We had to set the fuse. I'm not blaming you, dear. But it has certainly been a terrible experience for both of us, my love."

"It has led to at least one grand discovery, hasn't it, Bob? Now we are positive that nobody around this hacienda can be coaxed to enter that haunted loft at night."

"I get you," said Bob. "A grand place to conceal ourselves in case this household turns against us—as it may—any day—while the relation between the United States and Mexico is strained."

"The people here will never harm us when Certsels and Don Manuel are around," I remarked.

"But—in case of war—" Bob stopped suddenly and I realized that he had lapsed into one of his states of meditation. A vision of my soldier-husband looking so handsome in his olive drab uniform came to me. Like many another wife of a soldier, I feared a little war which might happen along. I feared for myself while I hoped for my country. Bob was a good soldier. I told myself, and his soldiering abroad had rooted itself deep in his ambitions. I read his thought before he spoke:

"How I wish I could get news from the border," he said. "The army of the United States must be gathering north of the Rio, to prevent trouble with Mexico, not to create it. You don't mind, dear, if I say I would like to be doing my bit for Uncle Sam again?"

"Say, rather, that I'm proud. But you can't join the army, Bob. Fate has picked you and placed you down here—ready for a great part—I am sure, if this trouble between the two countries comes to anything at all!"

"Chance has certainly wished something on me this time, my love. I can't avoid this little secret service stunt. I can't run away and leave you to Certsels." He looked at me a long time and then sighed, "I'd give a lot for news from 'God's country,' just now."

In answer to his wish, news came next day. And the messenger was a most surprising one.

Keeping Tires Mended Gets Best Results

To get the most out of a tire, the most care should be put into it. Keep in good shape continually, mended for the smallest cuts soon after each trip, the tire will run up to, and perhaps above, the mileage set by the manufacturer. Neglect means waste and disappointment over the service the tire is supposed to give.

Most important, in the care of the tire, is the almost daily habit of keeping the tread uncured and unbroken. As fast as they occur all cuts should be mended so that water, sand and other destructive matter may not gain a start on the tread and wear it away faster than calculated, prematurely.

If the tire is worn down to the carcass, it should be taken to a reliable concern for retreading. Men who are trustworthy will say whether this operation would only mean an added expense. If the canvas base is worn through in spots, retreading will not help it. An inner lining will give additional life to the tire, but not for long.

Washing Your Car

NOTED EXPERT INVENTS NEW TYPE OF ELECTRIC

WASHINGTON — Patents have been issued to Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, acknowledged as one of the greatest electrical scientists of the age, for a new type of electric vehicle which is claimed, requires 30 per cent less battery than other vehicles of like capacity, is 25 per cent lighter in weight and can be manufactured for one-third less.

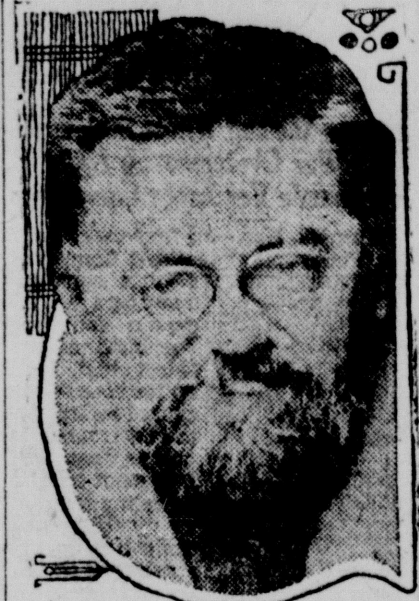

Steinmetz, who for 25 years has been chief consulting engineer for the General Electric Co., has been working for more than 15 years in developing the motor and drives that feature his new car. The General electric, however, is not to benefit by his invention, as a new corporation is being formed under the name of the Steinmetz Syndicate to produce it for the market.

In describing the unusual features of his invention, Steinmetz says:

"The method of motor control, by a storage cell floating on the field circuit, gives compound characteristics which result in ability to maintain speed on heavy upgrades and with heavy loads, a quicker get-away in starting and limits the maximum speed so a careless driver, even on down grades, cannot race the car."

"On down-grades and in stopping, the motor automatically becomes a generator, acts as a brake and feeds electric current back into the battery; therefore the car is perfectly safe when on heavy down-grades, without relying on the brakes. The brakes are used only for stopping the car, but never on down-grades as the mochine, make an occasional inspection of the wiring. Look for loose wires and worn places where they vibrate against the frame or other parts. Keep the wires free from oil or grease. Keep the terminals and switch points clean and keep the battery charged. These precautions taken, you should have no trouble with the electric system.

CHARLES STEINMETZ

tor checks the speedy and holds it to a safe limit. Incidentally this saves the wear of the brakes and recharges the battery, resulting in a better maintenance of mileage in hilly territory."

This motor arrangement in the Steinmetz car wholly eliminates the differential, makes possible a simpler and more compact power plant and reduces both the weight and the manufacturing cost of the car.

The company being formed to build present will be confined to industrial trucks and light delivery cars—will have its general offices at Baltimore. Two million dollars preferred stock will be issued at par and 100,000 shares of common stock with no par value. Washington and Baltimore capitalists, including William F. Ham, president of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., and Herbert A. Wagner, president of the Consolidated Gas, Electric Light & Power Co., of Baltimore, are directors in the new Steinmetz Syndicate.

The Light Car

When the real light car comes into the market, even the man of medium means will be able to own an auto. Consideration of the light car's advantages leads to this.

A light car means more speed and especially less trouble on muddy highways. Being light the machine will require a small engine to produce results equal to those of a larger and heavier car. A smaller engine means the use of less gasoline, and less gasoline means less upkeep. English light cars can run from 30 to 40 miles on a gallon. American inventors are seeking to better that record.

Being light, the car will need smaller tires and will not cause as much wear as the heavier-built cars. Less expense again.

And finally a light car will cost less—the smaller engine, smaller tires and smaller hood, besides various other factors—causing lower cost in construction.

Cleaning the Headlights

In cleaning the headlight reflectors care should be taken to guard against gritty substances. To do this effectively, wet a piece of absorbent cotton, wipe the reflector from the bulk socket outward and dry with a dry piece of cotton.

Quality Goes Clear Through

The salient characteristics of the Dort can be summed up in three sentences.

First, it is a car that needs service-attention but very infrequently.

Second, when it does seem desirable to give the Dort a "going over" you can do it yourself easily, quickly, and inexpensively because of the marked simplicity and accessibility of Dort construction.

Third, its mileage per set of tires, gallon of gasoline, and quart of oil is perceptibly higher than common.

Bring Home Bodies
50,000 Yank Heroes

Washington, March 12.—The bodies of about 50,000 of the American dead in France will be returned to the United States while between 20,000 and 25,000 will remain permanently interred overseas, Secretary Baker today informed Chairman Wadsworth of senate military committee.

The secretary who wrote in response to a senate resolution, estimated the cost of returning the dead and concentrating the bodies remaining in cemeteries overseas at $50,000,000.

Congestion of the French transportation systems and shortage of materials used in the manufacture of coffins is handicapping the work, Mr. Baker said.

While all bodies of American dead have been returned from Archangel, Secretary Baker said the same number still remained in northern Russia and that it was improbable that anything could be done toward their removal for a year.

Evacuation of bodies in England is progressing, he added, while in Italy all bodies have been concentrated ready for return to this country.

"VOSS LATEST MODEL"
Approved by Uncle Sam's Foremost and Exactng Authorities

Voss Washers have been tested and approved by not only the foremost authorities on Domestic Science and Economy, but also by the judgment of a half million enthusiastic owners who have purchased Voss Machines during the past years.

To anyone acquainted with the different makes of Washing Machines the name of VOSS represents the foremost Washing Machine upon the market today. It stands for durability and service. Demand a Voss, don't accept a substitute, look for the name VOSS.

The Voss Electric 3-Tub Platform Model
Washer is a Complete Laundry in Itself.

NO TUBS TO LIFT.

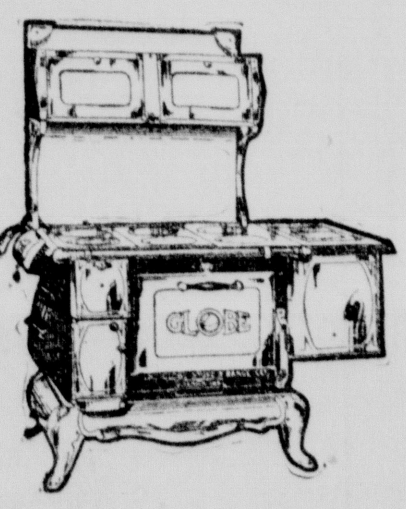

There is convenience in this Platform Washer that appeals instantly to the prospective buyer. It not only does the washing, but takes care of the washing, wringing and draining as well. No lifting of tubs after the washing is finished—simply remove the stoppers from the two metal tubs, turn on faucet of washing machine and the common drain pipe underneath all three tubs carries the water to the drain in the floor. This complete laundry equipment requires a floor space only 3 feet by 6 feet, against the wall or in a corner.

VOSS FEATURES.

Voss machines present many individual features too numerous to mention.

The Double Controlled Wringer is a feature which we wish to call to your particular attention. This wringer control, found only on Voss Washers, gives the user CONVENIENCE, SPEED AND SAFETY in operation. The HAND LEVER placed conveniently at the top of side frame enables the operator to start, stop and reverse wringer by hand alone. A FOOT ATTACHMENT is also provided which enables the operator to use both hands in the rinsing of the clothes and in feeding the wringer at will by the application of a slight pressure or the release of same on the foot treadle.

The ordinary way of emptying the wash water is more work than doing the washing. Simply remove the stoppers—no lifting of tubs or pails. Why pay $50.00 more for other Washers which haven't these great conveniences?

A LETTER
FOR WOMEN

From a Woman Whose Serious Illness Was Overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Garnett, Kas.—"I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a complete nervous breakdown following the birth of my oldest child. I got up too soon which caused serious female trouble. I was so weak that I was not able to be on my feet but very little and could not do my housework at all.

I had a bad pain in my left side and it would pain terribly if I stepped off a curb-stone. One day one of your booklets was thrown in the yard and I read every word in it. There were so many who had been helped by your medicine that I wanted to try it and my husband went to town and got me a bottle. It seemed as though I felt relief after the second dose, so I kept on until I had taken five bottles and by that time I was as well as I could wish. About a year later I gave birth to a ten pound boy, and have had two more children since and my health has been fine. If I ever have trouble of any kind I am going to take your medicine for I give it all the praise for my good health. I always recommend your medicine whenever I can."

—Mrs. EVA E. SHAY, Garnett, Kansas.

GOOD THOUGHTS Influence Lives and Work

BY ROGER W. BABSON. (World-Famous Statistician.) Have you ever felt all "squishy" inside your stomach when someone has told you that a telegram has come for you? You know how queer you feel until you get it opened and find that it is not bad news, but simply word from an old friend who expects to arrive on the evening train.

You surely have that "sickly" feeling when you are going into the dentist's office to have a tooth pulled. Even when you are sitting in a doctor's office waiting your turn you feel the same way. That's why people have died going to the dentist's or doctor's. The very thought makes them feel bad. The thought of going often affects them more than what is really the matter with them.

These things show how thoughts can influence our lives and our work. Production statistics clearly show that there is a very close relation between our thoughts and our success. If we think good thoughts, we feel good. If we do good work, we get good money. Our promotion, our salary, our health, and our happiness are bound up with how we feel. If we feel nervous and all "squishy" we are no good. Our employer does not like us, our friends get impatient with us, and we are unhappy. But if we feel good, we are full of pep, our cheeks are rosy, we get ahead where we work and every one is crazy about us.

CHAPTER 84.

Robert was at home. He sat by the window, but I could see he had not been watching for me, but had been engrossed by his thoughts.

"Come on, Robert!" I cried gayly. "We will hurry with our dinner—then I have a surprise for you."

He got up immediately, but showed no interest. Neither did he ask any questions.

We had dinner at a nearby restaurant. When we returned to the house, I said:

"Help me to pack, Robert. I am going to take a vacation."

"You need it. Where will you go?"

His tone was so cool, so indifferent, it brought the tears to my eyes.

"Not far! And you are going with me."

"Don't talk nonsense, Gerry!"

He shrugged his shoulders impatiently as he turned away and walked over to the window. "You know very well I can take no vacation."

"I don't want you! You'll have to hustle all the harder to give me mine." I remembered what Mary had said. I would make him feel responsibility.

"Kindly tell me what you are talking about, and what you intend to do?" I had dragged a heavy suit case from the closet. That would be all we need take. I could get the rest of our things the next day. It would be all I would have to do.

"Robert, we are going to be babes in the woods. Mary is going to lend us the woods. We are the babes. If you get chronic indigestion, don't blame me. I'll try not to poison you, but that's all I can promise."

"You mean—?" I gleamed of interest had come into his eyes.

"I mean that Mary Ryan can't let Gardner come often enough to suit him because she is alone. She offered to swap her flat for our quarters for a month. I left Madame this afternoon. We'll have another honey-moon, dear." I was so near crying I had to keep on talking to hide my feeling from him.

"Honest, Gerry? You're not fooling?" There was a lilt in his voice I had not heard in weeks. Then in the old tired tone: "But it's too late now. If we could have done this when I was with Calding, we could have had a heap of fun—had the Weeds and Murphy's for cats, and had a good time generally. Now we can't afford it."

"We will afford it some way." Now that I had decided, now that I had given way to Mary's opinion, I began to feel as if it were a game I was playing.

"I don't see how." I said no more, but packed what we needed. Mary and Gardner were to remain at the flat until we got there, so that Mary could introduce us to the superintendent. She had said:

"He's got a good tenant now and he knows it. He might object to a change if I didn't say you was all right."

The little flat looked very pleasant and homelike when we reached it. Mary had cleaned until everything shone. It was very tiny, very cheap. But even I felt the home atmosphere as soon as we entered.

A gay cloth was on the kitchen table, a plate of red-cheeked apples as a centerpiece. In her improvised window ice box Mary had half a dozen eggs, some slices of bacon, and a pat of butter. The bread tin held half a loaf of bread! For toast, he explained.

"But I supposed we'd have to go out to breakfast!" I exclaimed, delighted that Mary had been so thoughtful.

"My treat!" she replied.

"You're a dear, Mary! Isn't she Gardner?" I had seen Gardner but seldom since he and Mary had become engaged. But now I had none of the old jealous feeling. My real anxiety over the one man I loved had made all other things seem small by comparison. I was truly glad of their happiness.

"Indeed she is!" Gardner replied to my question. "And she needs a rest. It will be good for her to get away from housekeeping for a while. I shall make her dine with me nearly every night."

"You see, Gerry, I knew what I was about!" Mary slipped her arm thru Gardner's. "Come on, dear, let's leave these children alone. They said goodnight to Robert, who remained in the kitchen while I accompanied them to the door, and lingered chatting just a moment. I gazed at what I saw on my return to the kitchen—

Robert was sitting beside the table, his arms folded on the gay cloth, his head upon them, his shoulders shaking. Robert, my indifferent husband, was sobbing like a child.

Things Warming Up in Soldiers' Relief Committee Hearings

Washington, March 12.—Members of congress will support soldier bonus legislation in order "to get votes" Frank P. Keech, of New York, a former lieutenant colonel, in the inspector general's department, declared today before the house ways and means committee, which is holding hearings on relief legislation.

"I consider that an insult to members of congress," declared Chairman Fordney. "I didn't mean it as an insult, but it is true," Keech replied.

"Members of congress are influenced by the will of the people and rightly so," said Representative Garner, democrat, Texas.

"I consider it an insult for any person to say that I would spend two billion dollars of the public money to be elected to congress," declared Chairman Fordney.

Representative Henry T. Rainey, democrat, Illinois, told Keech he did not consider his remark an insult and that he would appeal to the committee to overrule Chairman Fordney's effort to suppress freedom of speech among witnesses.
